

BOXERMAN TO MODERATE BLOCKCHAIN PANEL AT ABA 2019 BLOCKCHAIN, DIGITAL CURRENCY AND ICO NATIONAL INSTITUTE

Posted on April 24, 2019 by Sanford J. Boxerman

Category: Presentations

Tag: Sandy Boxerman

On April 26, 2019, Sanford J. Boxerman, Shareholder and Chair of Capes Sokol's Digital Currency & Blockchain Technology Practice Group, will moderate a panel titled, "Blockchain Innovation and Opportunity," at the American Bar Association (ABA) 2019 Blockchain, Digital Currency and ICO National Institute.

Blockchain Innovation and Opportunity

Program Description:

Blockchains are expected to fundamentally transform finance, including global payments, as well as other industries like identity verification. This panel of companies, regulatory, and industry experts will discuss how that will happen and what types of future innovations and opportunities will and may be on the horizon.

Fifth ABA Blockchain, Digital Currency and ICO National Institute

The 2019 Blockchain, Digital Currency and ICO National Institute will take place on April 26, 2019, in New York City. This event gathers legal leaders in their respective fields, including government attorneys from the SEC and DOJ, general counsel at major companies in the space, and attorneys in private practice from around the country to discuss the interplay of the law and digital currencies and blockchains. The programming is dedicated to in-depth analysis of the emerging legal issues and the latest legal events concerning digital currencies, blockchains, and Initial Coin Offerings (ICOs).

The choice of a lawyer is an important decision and should not be based solely upon advertisements.