Alexandra Schenk is not only the marketing director of Capes Sokol, she is the whole department, and a wildly successful department at that. In just three years on the job, she is credited with moving the firm into the 21st century by creating a significant social media presence, helping older attorneys to learn new technology, encouraging all of the attorneys to blog as a way to develop new business and planning numerous firm events and client presentations. She even redesigned the firm's coffee mugs.
