

DURBAN QUOTED IN MISSOURI LAWYERS WEEKLY “PLAY GLORIA” IP RIGHTS ARTICLE

Posted on July 8, 2019 by Intellectual Property

Category: Press

Tag: Danielle Durban

Missouri Lawyers
WEEKLY

NEWS VERDICTS & SETTLEMENTS OPINIONS SPECIAL REPORTS EVENTS

Home / Top News / Featured / Putting “Play Gloria” on pause? Bar claims IP rights to use of St. Louis Blues’ unofficial anthem

Putting “Play Gloria” on pause? Bar claims IP rights to use of St. Louis Blues’ unofficial anthem

By Michael Phelps | July 8, 2019

Arch Apparel of St. Louis received a cease-and-desist letter from a Philadelphia bar related to its use of “Play Gloria.” Photo courtesy of Arch Apparel Danielle M. Durban was recently interviewed for a Missouri Lawyers Weekly article entitled, “Putting

The choice of a lawyer is an important decision and should not be based solely upon advertisements.

CA PES • SOKOL

"Play Gloria" on pause? Bar claims IP rights to use of St. Louis Blues' unofficial anthem. The article addresses intellectual property issues raised regarding the use of 'Play Gloria', the St. Louis Blues hockey team's unofficial anthem during its 2019 Stanley Cup-winning season.

Read the full article from Nicolas Phillips here: Putting "Play Gloria" on pause? Bar claims IP rights to use of St. Louis Blues' unofficial anthem

Prior to the Missouri Lawyers Weekly article, Dani wrote about these trademark and copyright issues on the firm's blog. For additional information: "Play Gloria" \(and Trademark and Copyright It, Too?\)

https://capessokol.com/wp-content/uploads/2019/06/Play_Gloria_Alt_Version.mp4

The choice of a lawyer is an important decision and should not be based solely upon advertisements.