The choice of a lawyer is an important decision and should not be based solely upon advertisements.

Gary is a founding member of Capes Sokol and has dedicated more than 50 years to the practice of law. An accomplished trial attorney, he has built a distinguished career representing businesses in complex litigation matters, including commercial disputes, shareholder litigation, and professional disciplinary proceedings. Throughout his career, Gary has also served the legal profession through numerous leadership roles, including appointments by the Missouri Supreme Court to its Regional Disciplinary Committee and Disciplinary Hearing Panel. In addition to his legal practice, he has shared his knowledge and experience as an adjunct professor teaching trial practice at Washington University School of Law.

We are proud to celebrate this well-deserved recognition and Gary's remarkable contributions to our firm, the legal profession, and the Missouri legal community.
